

PRESSURE MOUNTS ON HANCOCK AS LEADING PROFESSOR CALLS FOR "AT LEAST 10 YEARS IN JAIL"

Professor Angus Dalglish says former Health Secretary ignored health risks of Covid jabs and claims Whitty, Vallance and Farrar prioritised knighthoods over people's lives

NEWS UNCUT

FEB 12, 2024

44

9

Share

By Sally Beck

LAST April, one of our most respected cancer specialists wrote a comment piece for the Daily Express with the headline: ‘Covid vaccine booster now does more harm than good’.

It was commissioned by Comment Editor, Paul Baldwin, but only ever appeared online, not in the newspaper’s print version. This means that it can be permanently erased from history if necessary, or at least buried in the Wayback Machine.

The oncologist is Angus Dalglish, Professor of Oncology at St George’s Hospital Medical School in southwest London.

Until Covid, he was known for his ground-breaking work into HIV and AIDS. He appeared in the Daily Mail talking about the NHS staffing crisis, the Covid Omicron variant, young people and vaccination, suicides because of lockdowns and obsessive testing, but has now been largely cancelled by the mainstream media because he challenged our Government on the origins of the Covid virus (he says it is manmade in Wuhan) and the safety and efficacy of Covid “vaccinations”, particularly in children and young adults.

Few legacy news outlets have challenged the official narrative; the Daily Express, Daily Telegraph and Daily Mail being the exceptions.

Professor Dalglish, who pointed out in his Daily Express comment that stable cancer patients suddenly found their cancers returning after receiving Covid “vaccinations”, revealed that there was no big response to his article.

He said: “I’ve had far more reaction to pieces I’ve had published in The Conservative Woman and The Daily Sceptic.”

The response he did receive came in a slew of complaints from one particular troll.

“I was under investigation for going against Government and hospital policy,” said Professor Dalglish. “I don’t know whether I’ve been reported to the GMC [General Medical Council], but I’ve been investigated by the Royal College of Physicians. I had to have a hearing with them but was cleared.

Type your email...

Subscribe

“The same complainant reported me to St George’s. That instigated a formal procedure which, up to now, was happy that I wasn’t speaking for the hospital. But the complainant said I was disregarding hospital policy, which they consider a major crime.

“I told the board that if hospital policy is to keep giving everyone a booster, it is no longer incompetence, it’s negligence because they’re causing more harm than good.

“I explained it to them scientifically. The board said nothing, they just let me go. The next day they took down all the posters everywhere telling the staff to get their boosters now. Nothing formal, which is an appalling way to carry on.”

St George’s reopened their complaint on December 1, 2023 and have now reached a conclusion: “I have been constructively dismissed due to my vaccine stance,” said Professor Dalglish, below. “I am now Emeritus Professor at St George’s University London, [an honorary title bestowed on retired, distinguished medics], an unpaid position even though I have a grant with overheads.”

“Doctors said I made their life difficult because deep down they agreed with me”

Professor Dalglish has essentially been sacked, even though he has the support of medical directors and doctors.

He said: “There is a series of medical directors all of whom pass messages to me and warn me. One of them said to me that I made their life very difficult because deep down they agreed with me. This is the stranglehold the system has.

‘I’d like to see Matt Hancock jailed for at least 10 years for grievous bodily harm. He was warned about everything to do with the “vaccines” – and he ignored the warnings.

“I would also include Sir Chris Whitty [the UK’s chief medical officer, below right] and Sir Patrick Vallance [UK’s former chief scientific advisor, below left]. Because they stood by and allowed this to happen. They were in jobs that could easily have stopped it but neither of them would; it appears they are too keen on their knighthoods and being part of the establishment.

“It’s a disgrace and [Sir] Jeremy Farrar [former director of the Wellcome Trust, now chief scientist at the World Health Organisation, below] deliberately covered up all our original research showing that viruses had escaped from the Wuhan lab.

“More importantly, our paper went round cabinet and went round SAGE and we showed that 80 per cent of the spike protein had human homology that would cause tremendous side effects. That was put down as rubbish and I was told I didn’t know what I was talking about. Sadly, I was 100 per cent right.”

When Paul Baldwin approached Prof Dalglish to write the article, he said he was a great fan of his for speaking out and that he was amazed more didn’t.

“He [Baldwin] said, “you’ve been right on everything and I want you to do this”. So, I did it. I’m used to my copy being heavily interfered with but apart from one or two minor things, it was as I wrote it.”

Prof Dalglish has more than personal clinical experience to back up his Covid-19 “vaccine” hypothesis.

He said: “A close relative is paralysed because she was so stupid as to listen to her GP instead of me, a well-known cancer doctor. She got her booster and ended up in hospital for weeks with Guillain-Barre Syndrome (GBS), completely paralysed. Thankfully, she is recovering.

“Somebody else got GBS at the local tennis club. It took them six months to recover and they’ll never play tennis again. The thing with GBS is that 90 per cent of people will recover by around 90 per cent.

“I also have a neighbour who is in a wheelchair for the rest of his life. GBS can be very serious. The MHRA have it up on their website saying it’s extremely rare and a small price to pay for the community to be protected. Protected from what?

“I have patients who have run into trouble. I find out that contrary to my advice they did have the booster because their doctor refused to look after them if they didn’t have it. It’s unbelievable what’s going on. The medical profession has completely lost its professionalism.

“I know too many people with “vaccine” injury. If it’s rare I shouldn’t know any one.”

These are strong statements but Professor Dalglish, 73, says. ‘I’m past retirement age which is why I can afford to be belligerent.

“I’ve spoken out, collectively they should all have spoken out. They have caused serious damage to patients.

“Doctors are saying, ‘it’s just one of those things, fortunately, it’s very rare’. There’s a big survey saying one in four people know someone who’s had serious damage from the vaccine. That’s totally unacceptable.”

Paul Baldwin

Paul Baldwin is the Head of Comment at Express.co.uk, having formerly served as Head of News at the title. Paul has worked in digital news for 20 years. He started his career in regional newspapers before moving to Fleet Street.

SILENT: Paul Baldwin “agreed” with Prof Angus Dalglish but no stories relating to his findings have appeared in the Daily Express newspaper, only its website

Professor Dalglish refuses to be silenced and puts everything in writing as a historical record. He said: “My book ‘The Death of Science’ was published on Amazon last month. It’s a litany about how science has been killed around the world and replaced by politics. It’s no different from George Orwell’s book ‘1984’ and its Ministry of Truth and doublethink. We’ve seen it in the media and now it’s permeated everywhere.”

A spokesperson for St George’s University London said: “Professor Dalglish retired from clinical practice this year so no longer had any clinical role at St George’s Hospital. St George’s has always promoted the importance of Covid vaccination to maintain the health of our patients, staff and public and continues to do so.

“We do not give information about complaints or investigations to relating to individuals due to confidentiality.”

St George’s University London said: “At St George’s we take the responsibility to protect and promote both free speech and academic freedom seriously. Our academics are free to share their views and we work hard to create a culture of intellectual enquiry.

“Professor Dalglish is an Emeritus Professor of St George’s, University of London. This title is provided to a retired Professor or Reader of St George’s, University of London in recognition of their service to and connection with the university. It does not indicate employment by St George’s.”

LATEST REPORTS TO THE MEDICAL AND HEALTHCARE PRODUCTS REGULATORY AGENCY YELLOW CARD SCHEME

By week ending December 31, 2023, 70.2% (7,835,586 out of 11,164,326) of all people aged over 65 years who are living in England had been vaccinated with an autumn 2023 booster dose.

National Influenza and Covid 19 surveillance report – Week 1 report (up to week 52 2023 data), January 4, 2024

Yellow Card Adverse Event Reports:

178,217 (Pfizer-mono) + 6062 (Pfizer-bivalent) + 249,034

(AZ) + 43,147 (Moderna-mono) + 5665 (Moderna-bivalent) + 179 (Novavax) + 2932 (Unknown brand) = 485,236 people impacted (increase of 1238 in 9 weeks)

Reports classified as SERIOUS* by MHRA = 74.5% of all reports

126,233 (Pfizer-mono) + 4668 (Pfizer-bivalent) + 193,009 (AZ) + 31,229 (Moderna-mono) + 4156

(Moderna-bivalent) + 115 (Novavax) + 2100 (Unknown) = 361,510

46,764 of the above serious reports are of 'Unknown Age' = 12.9% of all serious reports

MHRA definition of 'serious' – patient died, life threatening, hospitalisation, congenital, abnormality, persistent or significant disability or capacity, deemed medically significant by MHRA medical dictionary or reporter.

<https://assets.publishing.service.gov.uk/media/6596accec23a10000d8d0b7e/Weekly-flu-and-COVID-19-surveillance-report-week-1.pdf>

Subscribe

44 Likes · 2 Restacks

9 Comments

Write a comment...

Puffin Feb 12

Professor Dalglish is an absolute hero and gentleman. He is so honorable and people like Twatt Hancock can only ever dream of having his integrity and knowledge. The world really has gone topsy turvy 😞😞😞

Whitty, Valance and Hancock are just the tip of a very big iceberg.

♡ LIKE (10) 💬 REPLY ↗ SHARE

...

Amat Feb 12

I think Hancock is sociopathic, he is incapable of knowing right from wrong and will not care when inflicting harm on others with his decisions. He will not flinch when causing harm because he is emotionally removed from everyone outside of his isolated little bubble. Hancock is the worst possible individual to be a Health Secretary and he has caused so much damage to the people of the UK, we are still experiencing the damage. He should be put in prison for life

♡ LIKE (10) 💬 REPLY ↗ SHARE

...

1 reply

7 more comments...